

Mission

When

the founding partners decided to launch the company's activities, the spirit that sustained the initiative came from the enthusiasm of working together, building a team in which mutual trust and respect constituted the most important capital.

The corporate approach thus emerged from a vision of a company centered upon shared values. These values represent the solid base on which the company was built and reflect the passion for work, professional ethics, understanding and appreciation of human resources, respect for the environment and an international entrepreneurial vision.

We

believe that the company is essentially the expression of the people who are part of it.

In

relationships with customers - always oriented towards transparency - the human element contributes to establishing effective communication promoting open dialogue in every phase of the project.

Westeam

anticipates its own course of development by building stable and durable business relationships with its own customers whose satisfaction is the stimulus for continuous improvement.

Our mission is to satisfy the customer and to expand our activity through continuously better quality in the services we offer. Creation of added value is pursued by offering quality products and services in the context of industrial technologies that are in constant flux.

Westeam interfaces systems engineering with the best available technology and ensures extensive operational flexibility in identifying, implementing and adapting equipment and components to the technical and operational requisites of every single project.

To do this, we are aware of the need to constantly renew our resources by investing in staff training, updating our inventories, developing informatics systems and sharing data with customers and the representative group for the purpose of increasing the overall efficiency of our structure while keeping the relevant costs competitive.

Our ultimate goal is to develop our potential and we intend to pursue it by earning the trust of suppliers, collaborators and customers for whom we strive to be a competitive resource as well as reliable partners.